ASHRAE President

Lee Burgett, P.E., Fellow ASHRAE
2005-06, President
ASHRAE

Lee Burgett, P.E., Fellow ASHRAE, serves as consultant to Trane, a business of American Standard Companies, and others, following his retirement from Trane as vice president-new ventures. He resides in La Crosse, Wisconsin.

As ASHRAE's president, Mr. Burgett directs the Society's Board of Directors and oversees the Executive Committee.

During his term, he is focusing on ASHRAE technology, including standards development, support of HVAC&R research, and technical activities aimed at disseminating information and educating its membership. He served on the Board of Directors as president-elect, treasurer, vice president and director-at-large.

He was chair of the Finance Committee, Members Council, the Board Policy Committee for Standards, the Standards Committee, the presidential ad hoc committee on health impacts in standards, Technology Council and Publishing and Education Council.

He is an ASHRAE Distinguished Service Award recipient. and is active in a number of related industry organizations, including the U.S.

Green Building Council, the Canadian Standards Association, Underwriters Laboratories Inc., the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Mr. Burgett completed his secondary education at East Grand Rapids (Michigan) in 1957, received his bachelor of science in 1961 and his master of science in mechanical engineering in 1962 from Michigan State University and his master's in business administration from the University of Wisconsin in 1972.

Lee will be speaking about shifting gears away from the discussion on how we might adapt internally to better meet our organizational mission, and focus instead on the social impact issues where we can make our most significant impact. There are three key issues that he feels deserve special attention: energy conservation, indoor air quality, and the broader issue of sustainability.
